The examiner will address applicant's remarks at the end of this office action.
 Currently claims 1-17 are pending.

- 2. The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:
 - (a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negatived by the manner in which the invention was made.

Claims are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Ouimet (WO 97/37328) in view of Zeitman (WO 98/04080).

For claims 1,2,4,5,9,10,12,14,15,17, Ouimet discloses a method of managing the parking of vehicles. Ouimet discloses that the user of a parking space enters information concerning the parking of their vehicle (i.e. vehicle location information and parking time information) into a ticket machine 12. That information is sent to a central computer system (server) 16 and to mobile units 18. The fee for parking is determined based on the location and time information. A debit card or credit card can be used to pay the parking fee. With respect to the recitation of the ticket machine supplying "parking authorization control elements" this is interpreted to be the receipt that is printed for the user by the printer 34 of the ticket machine 12. The ticket machine 12 does print a receipt for the user. Not disclosed is that the user can send parking information to the server by mobile telephone and that the server would then send the parking information to the ticket machine. Zeitman discloses a parking management system that has a high level of user convenience. Zeitman discloses that the user can directly communicate with a central computer system (server system) by using their mobile telephone and can provide the information such as vehicle space and time information by using their telephone. This would allow for more user convenience with respect to adding another way for the user to conduct the parking space use transaction. It would have been obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide Ouimet with the ability to take user information by telephone as is disclosed by Zeitman. The user could then communicate with the server 16 directly by telephone and then the server would update the payment terminals and mobile units with new information. The ticket machine can then print a receipt. The examiner considers it obvious to one of ordinary skill in the art that the receipt would contain information such as the parking time, parking location, and amount paid for the parking. This is what a receipt is for (to identify what you paid for, when, and how much it was, etc.).

For claim 3, the receipt printed by the ticket machine if fully capable of being placed inside the vehicle. This is a recitation of the intended use of the printed ticket (receipt) and the prior art is fully capable of what is claimed.

With respect to claims 6,7,8, the location of the parking space can be a number, which satisfies what is claimed. It does not matter if the number is a space number, a vehicle number, etc.. A number is a number and the prior art discloses the taking of a number.

For claim 11, the receipt is a list of information as claimed.

For claim 13, the "electronic certificate" is considered to be any data sent from the server to the phone during the parking use transaction. This could be a receipt in electronic form or any other data sent to the phone. The term "electronic certificate" is very broad language and can be almost anything.

With respect to claim 16, the account of the user (debit card account) is fully capable of being recharged by a prepaid scratchable card. A user can purchase a lottery ticket (with scratchable areas to show what you won if anything) and if they win any amount of money, that money could be deposited into the debit card account. The prior art is fully capable of what is claimed.

- 4. Applicant's arguments filed 10/1/04 have been fully considered but they are not persuasive. With respect to the argument that Ouimet fails to disclose any kind of printing of a ticket, applicant is referred to the fact that the ticket machine of Ouimet has a printer for the printing of receipts. A receipt is a ticket with printed matter on the ticket. Ouimet discloses what is claimed with respect to this argument. With respect to the argument that Zeitman teaches away from using payment terminals as disclosed by Ouimet, this is found to be non-persuasive. The feature in Zeitman of allowing a user to send parking information to a computer server by mobile phone adds a level of convenience to the system of Ouimet and the argument that they are not combinable is non-persuasive. Both references disclose parking systems for the managing of parking spaces, both deal with user sent parking data to a computer system as claimed. Both references are from the same field of endeavor and deal with the same issues and are considered analogous art, which has been properly combined.
- 5. THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

Art Unit: 3629

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
